GAME #6
CARLETON COLLEGE (0-5/ 0-2 MIAC) at CONCORDIA COLLEGE (2-3/ 1-1 MIAC)

December 7, 2009
Memorial Auditorium
Moorhead, Minn.

GAME TIME: 5:45 p.m.

LAST YEAR: Last year Concordia posted a pair of double-digit wins over Carleton. The Cobbers beat the Knights 74-58 at home in December and then posted an 80-68 victory in Northfield at the end of January. In the first game, the Cobbers put the game out of reach in the first half as they double up Carleton at half with a 42-21 lead. For the game, Maggie Bauernfeind led the Cobbers in scoring with 15 points. She was 3-for-6 from behind the arc and was one of three CC reserve players that had at least nine points in the game. Overall the Cobber bench outscored their Carleton counterparts 38-14 in the game. Bauernfeind also had three steals and helped Concordia force 20 Carleton turnovers in the game. Anna Matetich had nine points coming off the bench. She was 4-for-5 from the field and Green added four rebounds and two assists. Concordia shot 50.9% (28-for-55) from the floor and 40.0% (8-for-20) from 3-point range. Carleton shot 44.7% (17-for-38) and 44.4% (4-for-9) from behind the arc. The Knights only had three players with more than five points in the game. Carleton was led by Ally Weaver who had a game-high 16 points. In the second game Concordia trailed by seven at 18-11 and then went on a 12-4 run to grab a one-point lead at 23-22 with 6:29 to play in the first half. CC then finished off the half with a 15-7 run and took a 38-29 lead into the break. The second half was a question and answer session as the Knights tried to stomp the Cobbers and then CC would respond with a run and hold the Knights at arm’s length. Jenna Freudenberg finished with a career-high 25 points. She was 4-for-7 from 3-point range and 8-for-16 from the floor. Bauernfeind finished with 16 points. The Knights had three players in double figures in the game and were led by Hannah Oken-Berg who was 8-for-13 from the floor and 8-for-8 from the line to finish with 24 points.

SERIES: Concordia leads 42-14

SERIES STARTED: 1981-82

SERIES SYNOPSIS: The teams have traded sweeps in the last two seasons. The Cobbers swept the series last year and the Knights took two games in 2007-08. Before then the teams split their yearly series for three straight seasons. Before that time Carleton had won nine straight times, and before that stretch, the Cobbers had rattled off 36 straight to start the series...Concordia is 21-7 overall vs. the Knights in Moorhead.

2009-10 COBBER SEASON PREVIEW

The 2009-10 Cobber team will have to find a new leader in pressure situations and someone that can be counted on to pick up Freudenberg’s point production. The leading candidate to fill the leadership role is senior Sara Sorbo (Adams, N.D.). Sorbo has been a three-year starter and is a “lead by example” player. Last year she finished third on the team in scoring with a 9.3 points per game average, led the team in steals and was named to the MIAC All-Conference Honorble mention Team. Her work ethic and non-stop hustle on the court will serve the Cobbers well during the entire season. Sorbo had a difficult off-season as she was diagnosed with cancer in the spring and spent the entire summer going through treatment in Rochester at the Mayo Clinic. Sorbo’s ultimate battling attitude helped her through the ordeal and she is ready to take on the challenge of playing her senior season as a cancer survivor.

Sorbo is one of only two seniors on the team. Fellow guard Anna Matetich (Hibbing, Minn.) will be counted on to pick up some of the scoring left by Freudenberg’s graduation. Matetich has the outside shooting touch to put up big numbers and has been a constant contributor in her first three seasons. Matetich is no stranger to putting up big point totals. Last year she had 19 points against MIAC top tier team St. Thomas on Dec. 3.

The junior class had a pair of players earn conference postseason honors last year. Guard Maggie Bauernfeind (Rosemount, Minn.) was named the league’s Sixth Player of the Year. She led the team in 3-point baskets and averaged 9.1 points last season. Her ability to knock down the long-range jumper at key times will take the pressure off the rest of the CC offense as they look to find their new identity at the beginning of the season. Backcourt teammate Lindsey Schultz (Hitterdal, Minn.) was named to the MIAC All-Defensive Team. She is the team’s shut-down defender and her defensive pressure can take any opponent out of their offensive rhythm. Schultz will be asked to put up bigger numbers on the offensive end of the court. She has the ability to be one of the team’s top scorers as she averaged 7.1 points per game last year and is coming off an 18-point performance in the team’s NCAA Tournament first round game. Another junior could be next in line as one of the premiere Cobber play making guards. Erica Nord (Wolverton, Minn.) will likely take over Freudenberg’s duties as the team’s point guard. Her quickness and passing ability make her tough to defend 1 v. 1 in the open court. She was tied for third on the team in 3-point baskets in 2009 and had a career-high 23 points against St. Mary’s on Jan. 11. Despite her 5-7 frame, she has the knack for getting inside and grabbing clutch rebounds. Last year she was fourth on the team in rebounds and finished the year by collecting at least six rebounds in four consecutive games.

2009-10 MIAC PRESEASON COACHES POLL

1. St. Thomas (8)
2. Saint Benedict (4)
3. Concordia
4. Gustavus
5. Macalester
6. St. Catherine
7. Hamline
8. Bethel
9. Carleton
10. Saint Mary’s
11. St. Olaf
12. Augsburg

The 2009-10 MIAC Women’s Basketball season begins for the 12 conference teams with expectations of a successful year and hopes for a MIAC Playoff berth and a potential conference title. St. Thomas claimed the top spot in the 2009-10 MIAC Preseason Coaches’ Poll, barely edging last season’s league champion’s Saint Benedict. The Tommies received eight first place votes while the Blazers got four. Concordia, Gustavus, Macalester, and St. Catherine round out the top six in the poll. Six of the 12 MIAC teams will make the end of the year playoffs.

2009 Carleton Season Preview

A young roster brings renewed hope for the Carleton College women’s basketball team, which will seek to take full advantage of its youthful energy, athleticism, and enthusiasm during the 2009-2010 campaign. The Knights need a number of players to step into the voids in the lineup created when three starters graduated in the spring. Head coach Tammy Metcalf-Filzen is unfazed by the challenge. "It happens every year. You lose seniors, and you have to figure out how to replace them. What it will mean for us is a little different look, and a different style without the dominant post presence."

Overall, Metcalf-Filzen is thrilled by the 2009-10 team’s strong work ethic and infectious excitement. The squad’s three upperclassmen have already excelled in providing leadership and fostering a palpable sense of connectedness that has carried over to the court in practices.

The group’s most experienced returners are Megan Mileusnic (Sr./Orono, Minn./Orono) and Ally Weaver (Jr./Iowa City, Iowa/West), the team’s second-leading scorer in 2008-09, averaging 10.9 points per contest. Weaver will be looked upon to shoulder much of the Knights’ offensive workload, and the Knights are optimistic that her deadly outside shooting will help create scoring opportunities for other players on the floor.

Annie Eckhoff (Sr./Northfield, Minn./Northfield) will be a critical pieces for the Knights in 2009-10, as she is faced with much of the responsibility of filling the void down low. Eckhoff is no stranger to stardom on the hardwood, as she excels for the Carleton volleyball team in the fall. For her to realize the same degree of success this basketball season, she will need to bring her size and speed into the post.

Megan Erlandson (So./Minneapolis, Minn./Minnehaha Academy) is one of the veterans called upon to step into a more prominent role this season. She will take the reigns of the offense and run the point. As a rookie, she was first guard option off the bench, playing nearly 23 minutes a night. Carleton’s more guard-oriented offense should help Erlandson frequent the free throw line, where she shot an astounding 97.3 percent last year, sinking 36 of her 37 attempts.

Another young impact player who Metcalf-Filzen describes as a "really bright spot" is first-year Akemi Arzouman (Irvine, Calif./University), who has already dazzled coaches and teammates alike with her athletic ability and versatility. Arzouman will anchor the lineup mostly at the forward positions, but could also see some minutes at point guard.

The team is also counting on marked improvement from sophomores Kayla Kramer (So./Clearwater, Minn./Monticello) and Georgia Brown (So./Augusta, Ga./Aquinas), who had their first taste of collegiate level play last year.

Carleton welcomes four other rookies to the fold in 2009-10. Cassie Mullen (Seattle, Wash./Bush) and Katharine Walton (Briarcliff, N.Y./The Masters School) will backup the guard spots, while Megan Bakken (Waterville, Minn./Waterville-Elysian-Morristown) and Jessa Youso (Virginia, Minn.) — who played on Carleton’s volleyball team — offer added depth in the post.
